

- Wine Investment Fund Canada (WIFC) (offered by Accilent Capital Management Inc.) brings accredited and eligible investors an opportunity to invest in a portfolio of “Fine Wines” with demonstrated potential for capital appreciation. “Fine Wine” is an asset class with historically proven exceptional rates of return with limited correlation to movements either up or down in capital markets, as discussed in the groundbreaking book “Wine Investment for Portfolio Diversification” by Mahesh Kumar BA (Hons), ACMA, ATT, PMC, MBA, DIPIC . This allows the potential of portfolio diversification without sacrificing performance, and is the basis of WIFC’s investment thesis.
- Wine Investment Fund Canada’s wine portfolio is managed by Anpero Capital Limited; pioneers of wine investment, and the investment manager and wine advisor of the Wine Investment Fund based in the United Kingdom. This U.K. Fund (which was the first of its kind) was established in 2003, and has had stellar performance over its eight-year life. As WIFC’s wine portfolio managers, Anpero Capital adheres to the same philosophy and will work in concert with its sister fund in the U.K. to buy, hold and sell “Fine Wines” of superior quality to maximize the long-term capital growth.
- WIFC purchases investment grade wine exclusively from the Bordeaux region of France, from only established classified vineyards carrying the “Grand Cru Classe” designation. All the wine purchased is physically received, stored and insured (at replacement value) in a bonded environmentally controlled warehouse in the United Kingdom. The fund does not buy any futures contracts - only bottled wine which is aged for a minimum of four years before any vintage is purchased.
- Historically, investment grade wine prices are driven by general supply and demand imbalance. Increasing global demand for “Fine Wine” in addition to traditional market growth is surging due to new demand pressures from huge emerging consumer markets in the Pacific Rim, India and Russia. These markets have the potential to dwarf the traditional established centres for demand, namely the US, Europe and Japan. There is only a “Finite Supply” of “Fine Wine” due to non-expandable acreages in certain specific regions under certain exceptional classifications. This phenomenon is what the Managers say will drive values higher over time as supply cannot keep up with growing demand.
- WIFC has a term of five years and will be terminated at the end of the fifth year; all net proceeds after fees and expenses will be distributed to investors. The investment objectives of the Fund are the potential for capital appreciation in the investment amount that will be realized when the inventory of wine held by the fund is sold in its entirety and at the end of the five-year term.
